SPECIAL TOWN MEETING AT WOODSTOCK TURNS DOWN PROPOSED LAND PURCHASE

A proposal to purchase a three acre parcel of land on Lake Christopher for use as a town beach and park was defeated at a special Woodstock town meeting Tuesday night by a vote of 36 to 25.

The Woodstock Conservation Commission had requested that the town appropriate $7,000 to purchase the land owned by Ted Olson, with the remaining $6,000 expense to be funded from federal sources.

Reasons given for purchase of the 3.5 acre parcel were safety of children, public access to the lake for swimming, future investment, and more room for people to enjoy the lake front.

Reasons against the park were that the total cost was too high, possible vandalism with minimal police protection, the greater need to spend money for a new elementary school, and increased use by non-residents.

Manuel Polak, a member of the Woodstock Conservation Commission, explained that state requirements mean that the park would have to be open to all people and discriminate against no one. He said the town road bordering the property would be moved further away from the beach front.

Richard Duplessis, another member of the commission, estimated the cost of moving the road at $28,000. He said most of the other ideas would come from donated labor and materials.

FROM THE bethel town office

The Board of Selectmen met in regular session Monday evening, June 20, in the Town Office Meeting Room to act on a variety of items, clearing the way for the summer meeting schedule.

Community Safety and Law Enforcement Chairperson Barbara D. Brown reported the status of a police policy being drafted by the committee. Several basic concepts have been defined.

Unlike other organizations, the police service provides for the greatest amount of discretion by all police officers and constables regardless of their length of service.

The police role is influenced as much by the discretionary powers it holds as by the ability to use force.

Through the development of policy, the police can define its role in the community and control its practices in light of community expectations. (Guidelines can then be set for police operations and practices that will make them responsive to community priorities.)

Police policy will indicate to the community where the police agency stands on major issues and also permits some limits to be placed on discretionary police powers.

Faced with resource shortfalls, police policy will permit the department to establish priorities to be placed on discretionary police powers.

Joanline Fleet, Corres.

Mrs. Mary Morin, Mrs. Jeanne Fleet, Mrs. Nancy Kimball and Ben Swan attended Mildred Merrill's funeral Saturday afternoon.

Miss Penny Fleet is working at D. W. McKee's part time.

Miss Tammy Fleet left for the coast for her summer job.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fleet and Eva Yates called on Julia Fleet at Ledgeview nursing home, Sunday. She was sleeping when we first got there and then woke up to visit with us.

Mrs. Mary Morin spent Sunday with Mrs. Rita Laurinatis and family in Mexico.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

What a week for thunder showers! Doesn't seem as though we need any more for some time, after all we've gotten this past week.

On my way home last Monday, with my daughter, husband and baby, we stopped to see an old neighbor of ours in Norway. Annie Everett lived next to my family, on the Waterford road, for a number of years. It was so nice to see her again and she wanted to see the new baby. Also stopped to see Lulu Swan for a few minutes, to show off the new family member. I hadn't seen her for quite a while either, so was glad of the chance to stop.

We got to Bethel a little while before lunch and Michael and Nodie stayed to visit for a while, also Nodie wanted her aunt Peggy to give her a haircut. When Peggy got home from work, that was accomplished and while in the business, she cut my hair, too. Helps to have someone in the family able to do such things.

In the evening, Peggy, Russell and I rode down on to the Gore Road at Locke Mills to pick up some corn Robert Day had brought home for Russell. Russell feeds the crows so they won't pull the corn that has been planted. However, as soon as the corn is large enough, the crows will have to find their own feed.

Tuesday forenoon, I went to town to get a few things I needed. After lunch, Steve Blake and helper came and painted our ceilings, so we really shine now. Wish I could do the job as quick as they did, but know enough not to try. Guess I'm getting older or something.

In the evening, Daria Becker and Pamela Taylor, from West Bethel, called for a while to see Peggy. Daria was an exchange student from Germany and made many friends while attending Telstar. She is enjoying seeing as many of those friends as she can while here for a visit in this country.

What showers we had on Wednesday! They made those on Tuesday seem very mild. We began to wonder if the showers would ever end. Cricket, the dog, doesn't like thundershower either and stays as close to us as she can get.

Daria Yates and daughter Eva called for a short visit on Thursday. She and I are planning a trip to Lewiston in the near future, so she stopped to discuss it with me.

This was Peggy's first day out of the diner, so after lunch, she and I went to Rumford where I had a little business to tend to, also did errands for Russell and went shopping. Made the most of the trip by getting everything done that we could.

Was up early Friday morning to take my car to Sonny's for some doctoring. Had to have the exhaust system fixed as well as a part on my wheel that had been groaning for some time. Garage calls are like doctor's calls, they take a lot of money you can't afford.

Had to take a trip to Fryeburg on Friday too, and then in the evening, Peggy, Russell and myself

Magalloway & WILSON'S MILLS

Alice Harvey, Corres.

The Ladies met at the hall on Tuesday. They discussed the program for the next Grange meeting.

The school children enjoyed their annual picnic at Littlehale's campground on Tuesday evening.

Louis and Myrtle Cole and Ruth Noyes of New York spent the week end in Magalloway.

Pam Hinkley of Biddeford was at her parents' home over the week end.

Larry and Anne Bragg and family and Elizabeth Glover were at the Girardins in Green on Saturday.

Ira McGinley an Eastern Star meeting in Littleton one night last week.

A flea market was held at Wilson's Mills Hall on Saturday.

Donny and Donna Glover took their son, Robert, to Boys State in Augusta on Sunday, where he will spend the week.

I went to East Andover to visit our sister, Laura Hutchins and husband, Bernard. Her daughter Lorene and girls from Bryant Pond were there so got to see how Lorene's baby has grown. Hadn't seen them for quite some time so there was a great change in the baby. She certainly has grown well.

Did odd jobs around home Saturday, but in the evening, Peggy, Russell and I all went to the Woodstock Alumni Banquet at Telstar cafeteria. It was great to see all the folks who turned out to make a total of 101 people present. There were many classes not represented at all, it seem too bad. We always have a good time seeing folks we haven't seen for years. Sometimes you have to ask who they are, but it certainly is worth the effort to go and meet old school friends. Hope more come next year. They try to have it the first Saturday in June unless something interferes as it did this year. However, if you watch the papers, you will see the date for the event to take place.

Sunday afternoon, Peggy and I went to West Bethel Church to attend a bridal shower for our niece, Jody Haines. There were many ladies there and we all had a good time. Jody got lots of nice presents, all very useable for a young couple starting life together.

We would like to let everyone know that Bear River Grange now has packages of notes and envelopes to sell. Peggy and I have folded and packaged them ready for sale to anyone interested. They have pictures of interest on them, making good gifts, or good for your own use. Each package contains 12 notes and 12 envelopes—each package containing the following: Bear River Covered Bridge, Screwvanger Falls, Newry Union Church, and Bear River Grange Hall, where it used to sit. These pen and ink sketches are by Sue Wight of Newry and are very good. Anyone wishing to see these and buy, can call Russell Yates or Linona Blake. We hope to get them around where people can see them.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all you kind people who have asked why I haven't been writing for a few weeks. As you probably know by now, I went to help my daughter before and after the baby was born, and just got home a week ago. She needed help and I enjoyed holding that new granddaughter and rocking her. However, I'm back at it again and it's nice to know there are folks that like to read my crazy writing. Wish I could do better, but thanks for letting me know you like to read it anyway. It means a lot to me, as I don't consider myself a writer. Would like to be a better one.

Upton

Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres.

Sympathy is extended to Elsie Fuller and her brother, Frank Spinney, because of the death of their sister, Mildred Merrill.

Clayton Thompson wishes to thank all donors who gave in memory of his father Arthur Thompson. I have received a list of exactly what was done with the money, what shrubbery and plants were purchased but do not locate it this morning. At least my pocketbook will be much lighter to carry for a few days as I completely emptied it and put back about half of the contents.

The Bergerons were in Farmington over the week end as Mike's sister, Marilyn, from California, is visiting her mother. The Bergerons gathered for a birthday party for Marilyn Sunday afternoon.

Arthur Lemieux is having a chimney built. Ed Brennan and his son are doing the job.

ROUND ROBIN BRIDGE CLUB

Since the fall of 1979, the Bethel Round Robin Club has been having bridge tournaments several times during each year. An 11 week, 24 player, session has just ended with a dinner bridge at the Sudbury Inn. During these four years, records have been made and broken. The all time high single round was held for a long time by Dutch Dresser at 6630 and now is held by Anne Moran at 6690. Other scores for this session are: first, Norma Jordy; second, Barbara James; third, Barbara Douglas; fourth, Sally Ramaga; fifth, Cynthia Mason; and sixth, Rita Davis. The "Glad You Came" went to Margaret Trivard; the single low round, Norma Jordy; and the single high round, Anne Moran.

A short business meeting was held. A panel of three, Ken Ramaga, Rita Davis and Dorothy Moore, was chosen to establish a formal set of regulations. Anyone having suggestions should contact these people or write them down and send to one member for discussion. An early fall meeting (and perhaps a game night, too) will finalize the guidelines for future sessions. The next round robin session will be starting approximately Oct. 1.

Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres.

Did you ever wake early, before dawn, that period before the birds begin their songs? I have. It's a time of quiet but I listen just the same strain with all my senses—I know not why—maybe trying to catch some meaning to those moments before the lifting of the dark—the change to dawn.

As I wait and listen there soon come the calling of the white throats and the violin music of the thrushes. They blend with other singers and there's a sense of oneness. This all comes when there is silence. How true the statement, "Tranquility is beyond price." I presume there are those who would say, "Silence belongs to the wilderness. One doesn't have to be alone to enjoy it. It's a mark of understanding and of friendship. I have experienced it many times and often wish I could share it again for it makes walking richer and more complete.

The terrible showers of the week left little time for walks but I did go to the ledges and I took a short ride in my boat. Even that was interrupted by thunder so that I came back to shore. In each place there stood the pines. At a distance a pine's branches seem to be tier upon tier, a stately queen of dignity and grace. The early history of our America is associated with this tree; a vital force in the Revolution, a source of industry, the finest specimens for the Royal Navy, an emblem on the Revolutionary flag, and once on a coin. The white pine is a favorite of mine.

I stopped on the ledges for a short time. I watched the gentle waves on the pond. The birds were active, a group of swallows, diving and soaring were above the water. Somewhere I heard the crows calling.

I watched the cloud-shadows, streak the ledges and the grass. This day I think the clouds were on parade. There were many different shapes and many were flat on the bottom as if planned. In the far distance black clouds appeared. I expected lightning would rip the sky and the thunder roll. So it was time to start home, just a short distance away. I had no desire to experience any kind of shower in this spot. So this short trip holds its shining moments that will persist in memory and hold a warm place in my heart.

We have been to Stephens Memorial Hospital a couple of times to visit with our brother-in-law, Carroll Nottage, who is recovering from a heart attack.

We were surprised with a visit

WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOC.

UNDERGOES CHANGES

Response to Woodstock Historical Society's Exhibits in the School Annex has remained consistent this summer in the month of June thanks to the presence of Treasurer and Trustee Annie Crockett and the new Society sign which is more highly visible than heretofore. Curator Larry Billings has been active making exhibits more mobile so they can be transferred to the new museum across town. Members are invited to examine the building on July 9 to determine what structural alterations they would suggest. There will be a box lunch supper. The gentlemen will bid on the ladies' preparations. A table has been taken in July for selling flea market items and Society products. A supper will take place in late July. Recent acquisitions have come from Ruby Emery and Robert and Mary Billings. Several generous donations have come in recently and it is hoped that members will support the Society financially. The burden of purchasing and renovating a building can be considerably lightened if residents and visitors are mindful of the Society's needs. Several anniversaries are approaching—Mary and Robert Billings and Hazel and Victor Brooks should be remembered at this time. Watch for the Historical Society sign at different events as the Society could pop up almost anywhere.

Gilead

— Louise Loring, Corres. —

The summer has really got here all at once, and marks the influx of tourists into the state by the numbers, traveling miles upon miles to enjoy the scenic beauty of our Great State, that we, as year long residents, take for granted every day. To all of our summer visitors, welcome, and we hope you will enjoy our rugged coastline, our quaint New England villages, and coastal towns, our stately majestic mountains, and our winding rivers, and cool pine shaded lakes of the region. It brings to mind that when traveling through the State, one of the greatest signposts, most photographed and famous, are the towns which you travel through that are named for other countries, such as Norway, Paris, Denmark, Sweden and China. One becomes aware of the customs and behavior of our people, native only to this area, and discovers that beneath the "ayrures" and "how be yas"—there lies and beats a kind and generous heart, and willing and able hands to please you, and make all of you most comfortable, as you enjoy traveling through our State. Maine was allotted out in "grants" from Massachusetts in its early beginnings, and the folks that settled this untamed area, were for the most part, direct descendants of those arriving in Massachusetts in the early 1600's. So no wonder, that many of the towns you are passing through also have names of Biblical origin. Take "Bethel" for example. Bethel is a Biblical name, literally translated means "The House of God". The Bethel in Biblical times lay 12 miles north of Jerusalem, and is the spot where Jacob dreamed of a staircase from heaven to earth, where God promised to protect him and preserve the land for all his descendants. Could it be that the first settlers of Bethel, so many years ago, dreamed of a "staircase to the stars," so to speak, felt God's protection in their little community there, and realized that the land would be preserved and prosper for all their descendants.

And Gilead—Gilead in Biblical times, was a large province east of the Jordan River, extending north from Dead Sea. The region was noted for its good fertile land—famous for its gum or spice tree, known as the "balm" of Gilead. This balm was used to heal the wounds and sometimes used as a cosmetic. Maybe Gilead's early settlers, found peace and comfort, near the river here, with its fertile land and as the "livin' wasn't easy"—and their daily wounds of hard labor, were healed, by the beauty of the mountains surrounding this little hamlet, and the splendor of the winding river.

Also in Oxford County we have "Hebron"—in Biblical times Hebron was a town high in the Judean Hills, and Abraham often camped with his family there. Hebron exists today, high in the hills in southeastern Oxford County.

Traveling eastward in the State—we come to the town of Hermon. Hermon was derived from Biblical origin also. Hermon was a high mountain on the Syrian border. It was topped with snow all year round—and the runoff of its water when the ice and snow melted, formed the headwaters of the Jordan River. It is thought this was the mountain where Jesus' disciples found and saw him, shining in all His Glory.

Then we also have Carmel in the eastern part of the state. In Biblical times, Carmel was a range of hills which jutted into the Mediterranean Sea, and was where Elijah the prophet seemed to have made his fortress.

So you see, our early settlers CARD OF THANKS
The family of Alberta "Billy" Croteau wishes to thank everyone for their thoughtfulness at the time of our loss. May God bless you all.

Bob Croteau and family
Don Croteau and family

along with their naming of other countries, were also Biblically oriented, and hoped and dreamed of visions where visitors could come, and find a peaceful existence, as well as a scenic one, and we the natives welcome you the tourists here and hope you will discover what man has strived and labored for throughout the ages—"peace of mind" in a land just good to come "home" or "back" to.

Drive safely—and enjoy yourselves. "Peace."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and the gown worn by the bride had a high neck collar with a lace front, long sleeves, satin front with white applique roses and a ruffle edge. The bride also wore a lace veil attached to a cap with white roses. The bridal bouquet consisted of silk white carnations and silk red roses.
